

Bradley Urges Strong Europe To Block War Of Aggression

(By The Associated Press)

The United States paid tribute to its army today as Gen. Omar Bradley, the army's commander, called for moves to strengthen Europe immediately against possible aggression.

In an address at New York last night on the eve of Army Day the army chief of staff asserted:

"Strategically, the north Atlantic would enable free nations of the old world and the new to funnel the great strength of our new world to the ramparts of the old, and thus challenge an enemy where he would transgress.

"At present, the balance of military power is centered in the United States, 3,000 miles from the heart of Europe.

Dislikes Promises

"It must be perfectly apparent to the people of the United States that we cannot count on friends in Western Europe if our strategy in the event of war dictates that we shall first abandon them to the enemy with a promise of later liberation.

"Yet that is the only strategy that can prevail if the military balance of power in Europe is to be carried on the wings of our bombers and deposited in reserves this side of the ocean."

In Washington the general's call for "common defense" of Western Europe's borders brought fresh Senate demands for estimates on the cost of re-arming the pact members.

The other services joined in to pay tribute, with scheduled talks by Secretary of the Navy Sullivan at Syracuse, N. Y., Secretary of Air Symington at Montgomery, Ala., and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, at Baltimore, Maryland.

Others To Talk

The army's civilian chief, Secretary Royall, went to Chicago to make an army day address there, with Assistant Secretary Gray listed for a talk at Milwaukee. The army deputy chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, was due for another in Philadelphia.

In his prepared talk, Wedemeyer went a step further than Bradley in cautioning against over confidence in the ability of the air force to deal with an attacking nation.

START MONDAY ON CONCRETING LINCOLN HIWAY

The E. V. Williams company of Norfolk, Va., sub-contractors on the concrete work of the new Lincoln highway under C. J. Langenfelder and Son, general contractors, Baltimore, expect to resume laying concrete next Monday, R. E. Crocker, manager of the Williams company's field office at Seven Stars said today.

How long it will be before the new highway is open to traffic its entire length, from a point just east of McKnightstown to the section at Newman's park completed last year, is problematical, however.

With good weather and other favorable working conditions, Mr. Crocker said, the concrete work might be completed in "50 or 60 working days." The highway across its new right of way may not be thrown open to traffic before late summer, however.

Two Lanes Part Way

Two lanes of the three-lane highway were completed last year from the McKnightstown intersection with the old Lincoln highway to a new bridge over Marsh creek northwest of Cashtown. A third lane on this section remains to be completed.

No concrete was laid last year from the new bridge west to Newman's park. Tons of earth were moved last year in cutting and filling operations over the Mt. Newman section. This part will be concreted this summer.

Grading of the cut adjacent to Newman's park, just west of the intersection of the old highway, the new and the Buchanan Valley road, is completed and ready for concrete.

To Employ 75

Concrete mixers have been moved to the job, the forms placed and most of the grading preliminary to laying concrete has been done, Crocker said.

"We have about 80,000 yards of concrete to lay," he added. "With good working conditions we should have this done in not more than 60 days." About 75 men will be employed when the work swings into full stride.

Reject $10,000 Cemetery Bill

Gettysburg's National cemetery, dedicated by the martyred Abraham Lincoln, November 19, 1863, will not be enlarged through the acquisition of additional land, at least not for the present.

An Associated Press dispatch from Washington at noon today states that the House appropriations committee has turned down last request of the National Park Service for $10,000 to purchase the additional acreage.

Former Congressman Chester H. Gross had introduced the bill in the 80th Congress calling for an appropriation of $10,000 to acquire more land for the cemetery because of the large number of burials of veterans of World War II.

The committee today rejected the appropriation.

CHILD WELFARE GROUP PLANNING ANNUAL DINNER

Plans for the annual dinner program to be held May 3 at 6:30 p. m. at the YWCA, were outlined Tuesday evening at a meeting of the advisory committee of the Adams County Child Welfare Services. The group met in the Child Welfare offices in the Murphy building.

The committee voted to pay for music lessons for two children under care of Child Welfare and acknowledged with thanks the gift of a year's subscription to the magazine "Jack and Jill" presented to the services by the Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Geigley. The magazine will be for use of youngsters cared for by the agency.

Miss Cunningham will attend an eastern regional conference of the Child Welfare league to be held at Atlantic City April 8 and 9, it was announced. He was identified as Truman L. Grogan, 49, of near Gardners. An emergency operation was being performed at the Polyclinic hospital early today. Attendees there said Grogan's injuries included a compound fracture of the right leg. REVIEWS PLAYS FOR AAUW GROUP

An address by Miss Jessie Lewis, theatre reviewer of plays of the current season, featured the meeting of the local chapter of the American Association of University Women held Tuesday evening in the SCA building on the college campus.

The speaker said the theatre is now returning to normalcy and that the trend is away from serious plays to the original purpose of the theatre, entertainment.

Miss Lewis, who has worked with many theatre groups and more recently in television, reviewed a number of plays according to classification—classic, serious, melodrama, romantic, comedy and musical. She pointed out the propaganda inserted by the author, Arthur Williams, a pro-Communist, in "The Death of a Salesman." All musicals were reported by Miss Lewis as good and the "best in a long time."

During the business meeting which preceded the address, announcement was made of the state convention at Easton on May 6 and 7.

The Red Cross office, which did not reveal the girl's identity, said many anonymous donations of $1 each are being received at the chapter headquarters as countenances join the move to boost the Red Cross drive "over the top."

The current total is $10,904.81. Only $280.19 is needed.

MRS. SHEELY IS HEAD OF NEW AUXILIARY UNIT

Mrs. Raymond F. Sheely was elected president of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Adams County Medical society at a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the Gettysburg country club establishing the new group here.

The organization was effected by Mrs. Drury Hinton president-elect of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Pennsylvania State Medical society.

Other officers named Tuesday included Mrs. Roy W. Gifford, president-elect; Mrs. L. L. Potter, Littlestown, secretary, and Mrs. Leon Roos, Abbottstown, treasurer. Because the vice president automatically moves up to the presidency at the end of a term, the organization uses the title president-elect rather than vice president, it was explained.

Open to wives, mothers, widows, unmarried sisters, and unmarried daughters of county physicians, the organization is designed to carry out whatever activities it can to assist the medical profession. Mrs. Sheely pointed out.

Among members present Tuesday afternoon were Mrs. Bruce N. Wolff, Mrs. Gifford, Mrs. John J. Knox, Mrs. David Stoner, Mrs. Harrison Harbach, Mrs. Sheely, Mrs. P. J. McGlynn, Mrs. Potter, Mrs. D. C. CITES METHODS OF COMPILING FAMILY TREES

Approximately 70 persons jammed the museum of the Adams County Historical Society in the court house basement and overflowed into the corridor Tuesday evening to hear Mrs. Edith Beard Cannon, of the York County Historical Society, describe the "fascinating" business of tracing family trees.

Genealogical procedures used by the York society were described by Mrs. Cannon who displayed bound volumes of several of the hundreds of family histories compiled by the York society's staff. Some of the family records ran into 300 or more pages.

"In compiling a family record we have found that the best procedure is to list every evidence or reference to that family from every source available and then compile it according to a definite plan. In gathering data on a family we list facts on every variation of spelling of the family name—and sometimes there are as many as 50," Mrs. Cannon said.

Trace all Records

She explained how tombstone records of 455 cemeteries in York and Adams counties—already recorded in a card file of the York society—are used to give leads on family history. Church records are consulted, indices on deaths and marriages gleaned from newspapers since 1787, tax lists, census records, court house records such as wills, deeds and naturalization cases also are used. She said the state archives are frequently referred to in gathering facts for families wishing to establish Revolutionary service by ancestors. Original land office records, old shipping lists, family Bibles and in-

Here And There News Collected At Random

There is considerable confusion at large relative to the hospitalization campaigns now being conducted or soon to start in Gettysburg all of which will have a direct bearing or effect upon prospective patients at the Annie M. Warner hospital.

While the Warner hospital is not directly associated or affiliated with any of the campaigns its name has been used directly or indirectly in several instances, sometimes by simple inference.

As a public service to the people of Gettysburg we feel that some clarification of the issues is in order. It is not our intention to single out any one plan as being more deserving but to present the case and let the people decide.

Some months ago the Woman's club of Gettysburg decided to sponsor a town-wide campaign to enable local residents, if they wish, to enroll in a hospitalization plan under a group enrollment. The club endorsed the Blue Cross plan, of the Capital Hospital Service, Inc., a non-profit organization.

The club announced that this town-wide campaign will start April 18 and that there will not be a door-to-door solicitation. Anyone interested in this service may enroll at a public headquarters to be setup in the Leatherman room in the square. The club is not financially involved in any way. Its plan was approved by Warner hospital authorities.

Since that time two commercial insurance companies have started or are about to start hospitalization plan campaigns of their own. In one instance the name is similar to the woman's Club service and in the other it is not. In principle, the (Please Turn To Page 5)

JAILED FOR HEARING

O. F. Russell, Shippensburg, arrested at 8:20 p. m. Tuesday night on Breckenridge street on a disorderly conduct charge, was placed in the Adams county jail and will have a hearing later before Justice of the Peace John H. Basore. "ARMY DAY" FETE TONIGHT

Adams county's National Guard and Army Reserve units today joined in observing Army Day.

The local National Guard will hold open house this evening at the armory. Members in uniform will be on duty from 7:30 o'clock to explain to visitors details of the armored cars, half-tracks, jeeps, weapons and other equipment of the Guard. At 8:30 o'clock the Guardsmen will show a movie of an outfit similar to theirs in action. From 9 until 11 o'clock the Guardsmen invite everyone to attend their dance at the armory. At 11 o'clock refreshments made on the troop's mobile kitchens will be served. Captain William G. Weaver, commanding officer of the troop, today urged everyone in the county to turn out for the affair, particularly the parents of the men making up the unit, high school seniors and Gold Star mothers.

Lt. Col. J. M. Sheads, president of the Adams county chapter of the Reserve Officers Association, issued a statement urging all persons to take part in Army Day by giving special recognition to their army. "Primary purpose of Army Day is to honor those men and women who are serving or who have served in the army," he pointed out.

NCCW Group Holds Regular Meeting

The National Council of Catholic Women met in the Fairfield rectory Friday evening following Lenten devotions. Mrs. McCauslin, the president, presided. The opening prayer was given by the pastor, the Rev. Vincent Topper. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary and the monthly report was given by Mrs. McCauslin.

A report was given of the recent collection for the Bishop's Fund. The council decided to sponsor a card party at the beginning of May. Officers will be elected at the next meeting in May.

The preparation of a historical map of Adams county and the writing of many thousands of words of Adams county history have been undertaken by the county history committee of the general Adams County Sesqui-Centennial committee. It was disclosed Tuesday evening at the April meeting of the Adams County Historical society.

The committee's plans were described by its chairman, Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, who is also a member of the Sesqui committee.

The history committee has already launched these projects, Dr. Fortenbaugh said:

1—The writing of a brief general history of possibly 2,000 or 2,500 words of Adams county for wide distribution in pamphlet or folder form.

2—The preparation of a series of articles of many phases of Adams county history for publication in The Gettysburg Times throughout 1950, the Sesqui-Centennial year.

3—The writing of a general history of Adams county of several hundred pages for use in the schools. It will be written at eighth grade level but at the same time will provide a composite record of Adams county's settlement and development.

4—The compiling of a historical map of the county which will indicate historic spots, early names, early roads and other concise information on the county in the last 150 years.

"We do not anticipate any financial problems in any of these projects," Dr. Fortenbaugh said. "Some of the products of this committee will be sold to cover their cost and we believe that county business firms may sponsor the distribution of the others as a public service."

"Our only task is to enlist the services of people who are competent to write this type of historical material. One of the biggest problems will be that of condensing a great mass of county history into the comparatively small packages that will be required."

9 ARRESTED IN MARYLAND FOR MANY THEFTS

Baltimore county, Maryland, police, Tuesday night announced the arrest of eight adults and a juvenile in connection with an alleged interstate burglary ring which operated according to state police of the Gettysburg substitution, in Adams and Franklin counties, and burglarized at least 12 places in these two counties earlier this year.

Pennsylvania state police had previously announced arrests and confessions involving the ring in more than 60 burglaries of gasoline stations, hunting lodges, cottages and other places, more than 50 of them in Pennsylvania. Loot stolen in Maryland, and Maryland loot brought to this state, police said. Only a negligible amount of the property stolen in Adams county has been recovered, police said.

A crowd of 2,600 saw a beautiful night in Farrell high school. It was nip-and-tuck all night. Team ever got more than ahead. The score was tied 23, four times in the last trailing two points, 33-31, at the third quarter. Then, the county boys really dug in with 15 seconds of the game left, had a 44-43 lead. Kane a free throw. Then, just as the wall-clock signaled end, another foul was called by Yans Wallace walked to the foul line and asked if he was left. He was told two seconds remained. Thompson went to the foul line and again Kane muffed a shot.

While other players, thinking the game was over, stood motionless in the foul circle, Don Frase, a guard for Kane, jumped and tipped the ball in. Wallace shot the ball. Questions Official Time
The nubbin of the dispute is: Is the official time—that by the wall-clock or that by the timer's watch? Wallace said: "As far as we officials are concerned, there was time left. The goal was while the game was under way."

Wicht commented: "A good game came out of this night. It looks as if PIAA will have to register and referees as it does referees and excitement about the protest did the best work of the game. Done by Ashley's six-foot-center, Slim Dankoff, who up nine field goals and five or 23 points, more than any other players on both teams. Kane nor Ashley had won title before."

On the other side of a high board the baseball team was drilled that's what led to conversation about a kid named Dick Harvin. It seems Harvin ought to be on top of that fence, but Robert Lee Dodd hauled him couple of others over on the side, just about ruining baseball prospects. Harvin's first play as a college player, scored a touchdown. Vanderbilt. In his first track the Carolina relays, he won 100 yds. and in his first college baseball game he socked a hit to beat Rollins college. Baseball scouts are the ones who are on his trail.

TOO SMART?
Jones, the umpire, figures batters can get too smart trying to wait out pitchers and they get that way, they good hitters any more. . . . Now what he means, Red tells one game when Detroit's Art Hanes held most of the Yankee hits but Yogi Berra, just a rookie, smacked him for homers and a triple. . . . When he asked Berra how he could outmaneuver so hard, Yogi replied: "I hit him when I was at Buffalo, and he was at Buffalo, 1947." So Jones contends: "I didn't have sense enough to be in the Major leagues. I wasn't supposed to be able to do it."

BLUE PETER IS OUT OF DERBY

New York, April 6 (P)—Blue Peter, the winter book favorite, is out of the Kentucky derby and the spotlight shone a little stronger today on a pair of swift-footed colts named Olympia and Capot.

These two aspirants to three-year-old honors jumped into joint favor when Blue Peter's owner, Joseph M. Roebeling, announced that an internal ailment would keep his stout contender out of the "Run of the Roses" May 7.

Roebeling said War Admiral's son, the two-year-old champion of 1948, had turned up with an ailment similar to appendicitis in human beings. But horses don't have an appendix. The technical term for the malady is impacted caecum. "We do not plan to start him in the Wood Memorial race here, the Derby or the Preakness in Baltimore," the owner added. "If he continues to improve he may be ready for the Belmont stakes in June."

Blue Peter was the Kentucky Derby favorite at 3-1. Right behind him at 4-1 came Olympia, owned by Fred Hooper, Jr., and the Greentree stable's Capot.

Greentree's Wine List, which scored an impressive victory at Jamaica Monday over five and a half furlongs, is listed at 8-1. Other

CONGRESS MAY ACT ON SPORTS

Washington, April 6 (P)—Congress may take the role of umpire in professional baseball's "reserve clause" controversy.

Without ruling directly on that issue, it may get a chance soon to determine whether baseball and other organized sports are subject to interstate commerce restrictions and can be sued in federal courts.

The Supreme Court held some years ago that baseball is not interstate commerce.

But since then a federal district court said it could rule on a suit against baseball by Danny Gardella, former New York Giant outfielder, because radio broadcasts and television now carry ball games across state lines.

Gardella is seeking a court order to end his suspension from organized baseball for jumping to the Mexican league in 1946. He also has filed a $300,000 anti-trust suit against baseball. The Gardella case and other suits now pending in federal courts would not be affected by any congressional action.

But bills to exempt organized professional sports from anti-trust prosecution were introduced yesterday in the House by Reps. Mills (D-Ark.) and Herlong (D-Fla.), the latter a former president of the Florida State Baseball league.

Chairman Cresser (D-Ohio) disclosed today that some of the big names of the sports world may be called to testify at a House Commerce committee hearing tentatively set for April 14.

Bill On Athletics Goes To Governor

Harrisburg, April 6 (P)—Legislation designed to iron out legal quirks in the control of athletics and other extracurricular school events reached the governor Tuesday.

The measure would particularly authorize school districts to sanction organizations such as the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association in the management of schoolboy sports.

It was drafted to end the confusion that followed a 1947 State Superior Court ruling that held that money raised from the use of school property must be handled in exactly the same manner as tax funds.

The new legislation, adopted unanimously by the House yesterday, would give school boards control of athletics and other outside activities such as drama, school publications and similar activities.

Robin Roberts, Russ Meyer and Hank Borowy are almost certain of starting assignments, Sawyer said, but he needs two more. Trinkle may be the fourth and Ken Heintzelman, the fifth, the Phils pilot hinted.

WONDER AND SURPRISE

One reason why we get depressed in spirit oftener than we should is because we fail to note the everlasting beauty and wonder about us.
No matter where we go, no matter where we are, there it can be!

Here I am in my library, with colorful books all about me. Each one of these books was once a living tree—and other chemical elements have been resolved into examples of beauty and personal joy.
The woven rugs, once wool upon the backs of sheep and goats. The leathers that coat so many books and other specimens once were living, moving, roving animals. And in so many articles there are beautiful examples of the products of the earth, put to usefulness and enjoyment in our homes for all.

Here are my pencils and pens, ink, glasses, copper trays, radio, telephone, and Oh, so many things—things of wonder and surprise. And out in the open—endless examples of wonder and surprise. Every day we tread upon miracles and pass them by as though we were blind—as many of us are, at times.

Many of you must have read that exquisite piece of writing by Ann Morrow Lindbergh that came out several years ago, which she called "Listen, the Wind." Both wonder and surprise are in the title. Sounds have language. The sunlight has a voice. And its golden rays spread great strokes of light wherever it touches the earth—a master painter, as well as a benefactor in the giving of light and warmth.

Wonder and surprise are in every book that I pick up and read about birds, flowers, and animals. The wonders and surprises in nature are never ending. No writer has ever written all that there is to be written about God's great out-of-doors.
Each investigator discovers something new there, something left unnoticed by others.

Both wonder and surprise are in all existing things, whether animate or inanimate. All birth is a thing of wonder and surprise. Each human being is a chemical mine, from which issues ore more filled with wonder and surprise than any earthly digging has ever revealed.
What a product we have in man himself! The microscope has opened the eyes of millions.

SENATE GROUP DELAYS ACTION ON TRUCK BILL

Harrisburg, April 6 (AP)—Pennsylvania Motor Truck association said today it is refusing "to be counted out by a secret ballot" in its fight for liberalized truck weight laws in Pennsylvania.

"The trucking industry of Pennsylvania does not acknowledge defeat in its efforts to modernize Pennsylvania's horse and buggy weight laws," Edward Gogolin, association manager, said in a statement.

The Senate Highways committee yesterday voted 13-9 to postpone indefinitely consideration of a House bill increasing the legal weight limits for commonly used tractor-trucks.
The action, tantamount to killing the proposal for the 1949 session, came through a secret committee ballot.

The measure would have allowed licensing of trucks with a gross weight of 48,000 and 60,000 pounds instead of the present limit of 45,000 on tractor-trucks. It also would have boosted the penalties for overloading trucks.

Chairman John G. Snowden (R-Lycoming) said the committee can always change its mind, while Sen.
John H. Dent, Senate Democratic leader, said "Such action would only require the change of three votes. I don't think that is impossible."

Shirley Warner; "Story of Luke,"

Janet, Shirley and Phyllis Markle.
Prayer was offered by Mrs. Clair R.
Markle. Business was in charge of the vice president, Betty Lou Hahn.
Jean Markle gave the secretary's re-were in charge of Shirley Warner.

The next meeting will be held at

Resume Talks In Strike Thursday

Scranton, Pa., April 6 (AP)—Negotiations in Scranton's four-day old transit strike will be resumed tomorrow. Both H. H. Dartt, president of the company, and W. J. Mc-Namee, international representative of the AFL-Streetcar Men's Union, said the two factions would meet at 10 a. m. in the company offices.
The union seeks a wage boost of 29 cents an hour for operators and 25 cents for maintenance men.

will meet one week earlier than usual because of Holy Week. Their meeting will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Dale Stary, East King street extended. Mrs. Alvin Groft will be the leader.

Annual elections will be held on Thursday from 6 to 9 p. m. in the Littlestown Aerie No. 2226, Fraternal Order of Eagles. Robert Koonz and Robert Bevenour will serve as the tellers.

Operators now get $1.21 hourly and maintenance employees $1.27 to $1.42.
Meantime, the 85,000 riders of the transit lines in this anthracite region continued to get to work as best they could.

Motor pools, trucks furnished by large industrial concerns and autos formed the chief mode of travel.
Trains from nearby communities served by the Scranton Transit company reported increased business because of the strike of the 400 workers.

GAS PRICE UP

Philadelphia, April 6 (AP)—Retailers paid about a half cent a gallon more today for Esso Standard Oil Co.
gasoline. And, sales representatives admitted, the half cent increase probably will be paid by motorists, for it is likely that service station operators will add the difference to prevailing prices. The new Esso scale sent tank wagon prices from 13.8 to 14.2 cents a gallon on regular gasoline and from 15.2 to 15.7 on premium gasoline.

Bootlegging Is Big Business Again

Philadelphia, April 6 (AP)—Bootlegging is back in the Philadelphia area as a $125,000-a-day business, say federal alcohol agents.

About 5,000 gallons of 180 proof alcohol is being manufactured in two large stills operating here and in southern New Jersey daily.
Francis V. Wills, investigator in charge of the eastern Pennsylvania sector for the federal alcohol tax unit, said yesterday.

Wills said federal agents have been unable to locate the stills because the operations of two mobs are interlocking and they buy their sugar in New York, which makes our job even harder.

In the last nine months, Edward C. Dougherty, district supervisor of the tax unit, reported his men
"have confiscated seven large stills which had a daily capacity of about 14,000 gallons in the eastern third of Pennsylvania."

three are similar in some respects. In some points of service they are different.

In addition to the three campaigns, local insurance agents have other hospitalization plans, although the local agents are not conducting a concerted enrollment campaign and are not associated directly with the three public drives now under way or about to start.

We are not offering any explanation of the merits of any of the plans. We are not attempting to cite one above another. Those interested in purchasing a hospital plan may select the one they wish.

This month three drives will be under way.

Of the three one is a non-profit organization, two are commercial, and said to be reputable companies, although they do not have Gettysburg agents. Other plans are available from local agents.

We offer this suggestion: Those interested in a hospital plan should ascertain the merits of the plans and then, if they wish, consult Warner local insurance officials or their own local insurance agent for advice before finally deciding which they will buy.

POWERS SEEK TO REACH ACCORD ABOUT GERMANY

Washington, April 6 (AP) — The United States, Britain and France are undertaking a major effort to iron out their differences over three-power control of western Germany.

Diplomatic officials agreed today that if the three can get together on basic policies it will mark another milestone in the growing unity of the non-Communist west.

Secretary of State Acheson, British Foreign Minister Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman held preliminary talks on the German problem last week while Atlantic power foreign ministers were gathering here to sign the North Atlantic treaty.

Five Main Issues
They will try in the next few days to reach basic agreements which they can then pass on to subordinates in London, Paris and Berlin with instructions to work out details.

Diplomatic informants said the preliminary talks had pointed up five issues:

The issues, as authoritatively reported, are:

1. The extent of occupation machinery over western Germany in connection with the proposed merger of all three zones. The French are understood to favor creation of three-power control agencies

ATLANTIC PACT TO SUPPLEMENT U.N. WEAKNESS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Monday the foreign ministers of 12 western nations met in Washington and signed the Atlantic pact—the most powerful defensive alliance of history.

Tuesday the United Nations reassembled in New York with mixed emotions, for the Atlantic Pact is the direct outgrowth of UN inability to fulfill the mission for which it was created, namely, to insure against aggression. The alliance, acting within the framework of the peace organization, proposes taking over defense of its signatories.

No Repeal To U. N.

This is no repeal on the United Nations. It is the result of conditions over which the UN has no control, that is, the division of a great portion of the globe into hostile ideological groups which are unalterably opposed to each other. So bitter is the conflict between them that there is ever present danger it may develop into another major war.

Because the security council of the United Nations has been hamstrung by the division, the western powers have felt impelled to take over the job themselves. So the pact has been signed and will become effective when the Legislatures of the various member nations have voted their approval of the action which their governments have taken.

However, while the western powers have thus felt compelled to supplement the United Nations, there is no reason for the peace organization to feel that its standing has been weakened by the move. On the contrary, the alliance is calculated to strengthen the hand of the UN. For in its own big zone of influence the Atlantic alliance now can act on behalf of peace-loving nations against aggression.

Death Toll In Effingham Hospital Tragedy Mounts To An Estimated 80 Today

SECOND WORST IN U.S. HISTORY; 46 IDENTIFIED

Effingham, Ill., April 6 (AP)—The death toll in the nation's second most tragic hospital fire mounted to an estimated 80 today.

Forty-six of the victims of the fire which destroyed St. Anthony's hospital early Tuesday have been identified. Thirteen were newborn babies. As state and city fire officers attempted to determine the cause of the blaze, workers resumed the grim task of searching the ruins for bodies of 34 still reported missing.

Only Walls Remain
National guardsmen patrolled the hospital area and huge searchlights lit up the blackened rubble still believed to be concealing the bodies of many victims. Only the naked walls of the three and a half story brick building stood. The hunt for additional bodies was retarded yesterday as fire officials feared the walls might fall upon firemen.

The number of dead in the terrifying midnight fire had been estimated yesterday at 65 by the hospital registrar, Miss Helen Wiseman. However, 15 additional bodies which had been removed to hospitals and undertaking establishments in nearby communities after the blaze, were identified early today.

The list of dead or missing was compiled by Associated Press reporters at the scene, with the aid of official sources.

All Records Lost
Records at the hospital, the only one in this south central Illinois community of 8,600, were lost.

However, the hospital believed believed there were 124 persons—patients and staff members—in the 62 year old institution, operated by

ANNIVERSARY OF U.S. ENTRY INTO WORLD WAR ONE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

This date 32 years ago the United States took her place among the allies in World War I with a declaration of hostilities against an aggressive Germany.

Basically that war was the outgrowth of German greed—an urge for expansion at the expense of the other fellow. Or to employ the German euphemism, it was caused by the need for greater lebensraum (living space).

Approximately 22 years later the globe was torn by an even more terrible conflict. Naturally America was among the allies. And of course they called it World War II. Again the basic cause was greed or, if you wish, the demand for lebensraum.

Might Have Been So
Day before yesterday twelve Western allies, meeting in Washington, signed the Atlantic pact. This is a defensive alliance, aimed at protection against aggression whose evil spirit again is hunting trouble. President Truman said in an address regarding this historic treaty:

"It is a simple document, but it had existed in 1914 and in 1938, supported by the nations who are represented here today. I believe it would have prevented the acts of aggression which led to the two world wars."

It's easy to believe that this might have been so. However, one has the feeling that even if the two wars had been prevented then, the world still might have had to endure the agony of an upheaval.

There were great political, territorial and economic problems to be adjusted. There were imperial revisions which inevitably must have come. There was racial freedom to be established. These reforms could only be achieved by major operations.

Many of these things were brought about by the two world wars. Perhaps in the course of many generations they would have been accomplished through the peaceful development of mankind. Who can say? Certainly if one could choose between quick progress by war and slow progress through peace, the latter must be the choice. Heaven forgive the maker of war!

so low that a stone on the lake bed has been uncovered and the following inscription brought to light: "When You See Me, Cry."

Old Swiss residents say the sign refers to the bad times endured during dry spells years ago. The stone hasn't been seen since 1921.

the Catholic Order of St. Francis, when the fire broke.

The number of survivors was estimated at 55 by the Red Cross. Firemen said most of the survivors suffered in some degree from burns or smoke, but only one was reported in critical condition. Among the known dead were two nuns, the hospital's chaplain, and three nurses.

Inspectors from the Illinois state fire marshal's office, headed by Chief Pat Kelly, investigated the fire. Fire Chief Fred Wilkins of Effingham, said he would cooperate with inspectors in an attempt to determine cause of the fire.

Day of Mourning
Maurice Rickelman, Effingham county state's attorney, declined comment when asked if his office planned an investigation of the devastating fire.

Wilkins said he discounted a report that leaking gas caused the blaze which sent flames racing through the old structure with such speed that scores of patients were trapped in their rooms. Many of the patients were believed to have perished without a chance to leave their beds.

Effingham, stunned by one of the worst fire disasters in Illinois history, planned a day of mourning tomorrow. The nation's most tragic hospital fire was one which killed 124 persons in the Cleveland, Ohio, Clinic hospital of Dr. George W. Crile on May 15, 1929.

NAB MISSING N.Y. BANKER IN FLORIDA BAR

Washington, April 6 (AP)—Richard H. Crowe was seized in Daytona Beach, Fla., Mon. night on charges of fleeing with $884,660 from New York's National City bank.

Crowe, assistant manager of the bank's branch at 195 Broadway, was arrested by FBI agents. He had been missing since March 27.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover who announced the arrest said Crowe was tracked down after a wide search in Florida. Crowe was taken into custody in a bar after the agents and Daytona Beach police had trailed him from the street.

Admits Taking Sum

Hoover said Crowe admitted taking a "large sum" of money from the bank but declined to specify any particular amount.

Agents recovered $54,798.63 from a suitcase in Crowe's possession. Previously, Hoover said, $36,505 of the funds had been recovered and an additional $39,850 had been located. All told, Hoover added, a total of $131,153.63 of the stolen funds have been accounted for.

The bank previously reported that Crowe had taken at least $883,660, including $193,000 in cash and $690,000 in bonds.

About $15,000 in cash was found in a vacant beach bungalow owned by Crowe's parents at Staten Island. In addition, Crowe had mailed approximately $61,000 to banks and friends to whom he owed money. The money was sent from Florida a few days after he disappeared.

Crowe told the FBI, Hoover related, that he threw the stolen bonds and securities in the Atlantic ocean and "took these only to make the bank officials angry."

Fled To Florida

Hoover's account said: "After fleeing from New York city on March 27, 1949, Crowe purchased a new car in Jacksonville, Fla., on March 28, 1949, which he abandoned at St. Augustine, Fla., on April 1.

"On this occasion he stored the car at a local garage stating it was the property of John Roberts (a fictitious person) in Miami who would be out of the country for six months. This car was located by local police in St. Augustine after details of the car had been widely broadcast by the FBI throughout the nation.

"The investigation that followed disclosed that Crowe purchased a club coupe in St. Augustine for $2,851 on April 1. He abandoned this car at Daytona Beach, claiming he was afraid FBI agents had already obtained information on it. Last

PROPOSE PROBE OF ASSISTANCE SETUP IN STATE

Harrisburg, April 6 (AP)—A proposal for a sweeping inquiry into public assistance in Pennsylvania may win Senate committee approval today.

Chairman Paul L. Wagner (R-Schuylkill) said legislation submitted by Sens. Fred P. Hare, Jr. (R-Somerset) and T. Newell Wood (R-Luzerne) would be up for consideration at a meeting of the state government committee.

"Although I don't know how the committee stands, I have heard quite a bit of talk about the problem," Wagner said. "If we are going to have an inquiry it should be thorough."

Other Decisions Near

With the drive toward adjournment moving into high gear, these other issues headed toward decisions:

School Buses. The Senate education committee put at the top of its list House-passed legislation to require automobile traffic to halt for school buses loading or unloading on public highways.

School buildings. The House Republican leadership slated a final vote on a Senate-passed measure broadening the powers of the public school building authority established in 1947.

Sen. A. H. Letzler (R-Clearfield), at the same time said it is unlikely any action will come in the Senate until next week on the controversial question of revising the state's liquor laws on the licensing of clubs.

Stunning Setbacks

Meanwhile, proponents of changes in truck weights and fair employment practice laws received stunning setbacks in the general assembly.

The Senate Highways committee pigeon-holed indefinitely a House-passed measure to increase the legal weight limits of commonly used tractor trucks. The vote was 13-9 by secret ballot. An hour later, the Senate judiciary committee tabled an administration-backed FEPC law by another secret 14-8 ballot.

Democratic senators, meanwhile, protested strongly in the Senate against secret committee votes. Sen. Maxwell Rosenfeld (R-Phila.) said he would work to eliminate such a practice in the legislature.

15-Member Commission

Previously he and three other Democratic Senators voted against a motion for a secret ballot on FEPC. All Republican members except Sens. John Meade and Bertram Frazier (R-Phila.), sponsors of the FEPC measure, voted for the motion.

The relief investigation proposed by Senators Hare and Wood would be made by a special 15-member commission with authority to summon witnesses, to examine records and to inquire into qualifications of public assistance personnel.

Mark Twain patented in 1873 a book which did not have a single word in it yet 25,000 copies of it were sold. It was a self-pasting scrapbook.

News Items For Upper End

The Story Of A School

By Elliott Taylor
Vice President of the Upper Adams School District

This is the fourth in the series of articles on the growth of education in the boroughs and townships that now comprise the Upper Adams School District, jointure, showing the need and subsequent vindication of the consolidation; a glimpse of the schools in operation today and a prophetic preview of the future with its problems and its opportunities.

Here, then, was the position of the township school boards in upper Adams county, when Biglerville opened its junior high school in 1941. For every school that they closed they would receive an allowance of $200 a year from the state; and they could send pupils into Biglerville from the seventh grade on through high school and be reimbursed about 75 per cent for transportation and between 30 and 35 per cent for tuition paid. It was as much a question of economics as it was of Education, and the townships fell rapidly into line with "six-six" programs of their own. By eliminating their seventh and eighth grades they were able to regroup their elementary pupils and do away with some of their one-teacher schools.

Butler Was First

Butler was the first township to send pupils into Biglerville for junior high school instruction. As a result it was able to close one school in 1941 and another in 1945.

In 1942, Menallen and Tyrone both reduced their one-room units by going into a six grade elementary school program. Menallen closed two schools in 1942; Tyrone closed one in 1944 and another in the year following.

By the time the present upper Adams jointure came up for discussion only eight out of the 1911 peak of thirty-two single-teacher schools remained to be disposed of in all three townships.

The final step in a long series of legislative enactments designed to eliminate township schools and enforce their consolidation into larger administrative units, came about when Act 403 was passed by the Pennsylvania General Assembly in 1945. The net effect of this law has been to make it practically impossible for any rural township to continue in independent operation.

Teachers' salaries were raised, from the former minimum of $1,600, to $1,900 for beginners, with automatic salary increases of $150 per year for up to eight years of continuous service.

Change Reimbursement

The method of computing state reimbursement was also changed. Under the law, as it read prior to 1945, districts were reimbursed on the basis of the number of teachers employed in relation to the assessed valuation of each employing district. The more teachers employed, the greater became the per cent of their salaries paid by the state. The proportion of teachers to property values in all of our districts put them in about the same class as far as reimbursement was concerned. Seventy-five per cent of mandated salaries paid to teachers was born by the state.

Under the new law, however, not the number of teachers, but the number of "teaching units" in relation to the assessed valuation became the basis of reimbursement. Twenty-two high school students or thirty elementary pupils now constitute one teaching unit. If the number pupils per teacher goes below these figures, the per cent of state reimbursement declines. On the other hand, if the number of pupils per teacher goes above twenty-four for high school or thirty-three for elementary grades, the state's share of the cost of instruction still declines.

Easier In Large District

The advantage of conforming to the prescribed teacher-pupil ratio can best be indicated by referring to the actual reimbursement fractions now in effect for all of the various districts. Whereas seventy-five per cent was the maximum that could be obtained under the old law the following percentages of teachers' salaries are refunded by the state today:

Arendtsville Borough	8273
Bendersville Borough	8782
Biglerville Borough	8963
Butler Township	8792
Menallen Township	8713
Tyrone Township	8850

All of the school boards in the district were well aware of these facts, and they knew what would confront them in the opening of the school year 1947-48. In the late spring of 1947 they met in a series of joint conferences aimed at finding a solution. Many opinions were expressed and many viewpoints aired, but finally it became obvious to everyone present that some form of consolidation was the only practical answer.

Union or Jointure

Under Pennsylvania law it is permissible to merge in two ways: They can form a union or consolidated school district by placing the proposition on the ballot and winning the approval of the majority of the voters in each district; or the school boards can form a jointure by pass-

Saturday he rented an apartment at Daytona Beach under the name of Richard Karr, Sparta, N. J. Since arriving in Daytona Beach he has spent his time lounging on the beach and in bars.

Of fleeing with $884,660 from New agents were looking for Crowe two agents recognized him on the streets of Daytona Beach and followed him to the bar. The agents were then joined by a member of the Daytona beach police department and Crowe was accosted. Crowe readily admitted his identity and admitted a willingness to return to New York to face charges.

Hoover said arrangements are being made with the U. S. Attorney in Jacksonville, Fla., for Crowe's arraignment as soon as possible.

The Story Of A School

By Elliott Taylor

ing resolutions and drawing up a contract between the districts without placing the issue on the ballot. Since the schools were scheduled to open in September, and no election was due until November, it was patently impossible to submit a union district proposal to the voters. Nevertheless, the directors were determined that the sentiment of the school patrons should be explored and their decision in the matter adhered to.

Meetings were called all over the system, and everyone who had an idea, an opinion or a suggestion to offer, participated. Some of the sessions were stormy. Loyalty to the established community schools was the paramount sentiment that prevailed in many discussions. Resentment and mistrust of the state's motives in bringing economic pressure to bear on the local school districts was voiced. A citizens' committee undertook to explore possibilities other than of jointure through which they might comply with the state law and still retain a semblance of the status quo.

Only Feasible Plan

Every investigation, however, eventually came up with the same answer: A joint school system was the only feasible solution. Anything else was shown to be either prohibitive in cost or thoroughly inadequate from an educational standpoint. And finally, the citizens of every one of the six districts voted overwhelmingly in favor of the move. The boards of Arendtsville, Bendersville and Biglerville boroughs, and of Butler, Menallen and Tyrone townships drew up separate jointure resolutions for their own minutes. They then met in combined session, voted unanimously in favor of the jointure agreement with every member of every board present, and on June 5, 1947, the Upper Adams School District, Jr. became an officially established institution.

Proof of the Plan

There is no denying the fact that the organization of the joint school system was a move in which economic necessity played a strong part. It is well, then, to be realistic about its operation, and inquire whether it has justified the confidence of all of the school boards who felt that it would provide a way to better education at less expense than under independent operation.

First we must remind ourselves that there was no possible way for the schools to operate under the state law and keep within the limits of their previous years' budgets. The question was not whether school costs would rise, but rather how much they would rise.

The following table shows at a glance how much each school district saved in net operating cost to the district under the jointure. The first column, "Cost under Joint Operation," represents in dollars what each district had to raise through local school taxes, after all state contributions for closed schools, transportation and teachers' salary reimbursements had been deducted.

Some Save More

The column Cost under Independent Operation is what it would have cost each district for the year 1947-48 if no jointure had been formed. Here too, all state contributions have already been deducted. Some districts save more than others. But it is noteworthy that there was not a single township or borough among the six that did not effect some economy. For the district as a whole, the figures show that it would have cost 23.6% more in local taxes to operate the schools as independent units. The Little Red School House would be an expensive luxury today! The figures tell us why:

	Cost under Joint Oper.	Cost under Indep. Oper.
Arendtsville	$ 1,580.04	$ 7,319.78
Bendersville	1,702.04	4,454.33
Biglerville	11,687.66	13,328.56
Butler	11,438.91	13,166.02
Menallen	15,696.37	17,477.91
Tyrone	12,909.01	12,986.06

	$55,014.23	$68,762.66
Net Saving	$13,748.43

No school can be measured finally, or even primarily by the financial yardstick. If that were the case it would follow that the cheapest schools are the best schools, a doctrine which even the most prudent would hesitate to subscribe.

The only question always remains as to whether a school is producing the results to be expected for the money that is spent.

It is no overstatement, nor is it an immodest one, for any patron of the upper Adams jointure to say that he is a part of one of the best small school districts in the state. He will not be wanting for evidence to bear out his contention.

Used As Pattern

During the last year the operation of the jointure, and the means whereby it was organized, have been studied by fifteen different school boards from various sections of Pennsylvania. Many of them have returned home to effect similar consolidations of their own schools.

The school guidance program is recognized by the Department of Education as one of the best in Pennsylvania.

The well balanced activities program of the high school has won it from time to time, state honors in sports, dramatics and music.

The vocational program was made the subject of a special study by a Venezuelan educator in 1947, and its counterpart has since been set up in the city of Caracas.

The Commission on Secondary schools of the Middle Atlantic States has officially inspected the Biglerville high school unit and given it a rating of "Superior" on its overall operation. This is regarded by educators as high endorsement. (The fifth and concluding installment will be published April 26.)

More Cuts In Car Prices Announced

Detroit, April 6 (AP)—The downward movement in car prices continues.

Effective Monday midnight, Nash-Kelvinator Corp. announced a reduction of $20 to $120 on its two series of cars. The announcement came on the heels of a similar cut by Ford. In the four weeks previously Kaiser-Frazer, Willys-Overland and General Motors had cut prices.

Greater availability of materials, increased production volume, reductions in materials costs and uninterrupted production were given as the reasons for the Nash reductions. Ford of Canada Tuesday also announced price reductions ranging from $30 to $114 on passenger cars and from $16 to $42 on lighter trucks.

EMPLOYMENT OFF
New York, April 6 (AP)—There were 39,600 fewer manufacturing workers in Pennsylvania in January than in December and 56,300 less than for the corresponding month in 1948. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported yesterday the reduction of industrial wage earners was partly seasonal and corresponded to a drop throughout the Middle Atlantic area.

Interesting News Of Upper Adams Countians And Their Enterprises

APPLE TAX BILL TURNED DOWN BY PA. LEGISLATURE

The state Legislature Tuesday night turned down for the second time in as many sessions, the Adams county backed proposal that Pennsylvania apples be taxed one-cent a bushel to raise money for research and advertising.

The bill failed by eight votes in the House. In the previous session of the Legislature, it passed the house and was turned down by the senate. The vote Tuesday was 97 to 85, while the constitutional majority necessary to pass a bill in the lower chamber is 103.

Designed to raise about $100,000 a year to finance an advertising and research program to exploit Pennsylvania's apple industry, the tax would have been placed on producers of more than 500 bushels a year.

To Be Topic Thursday

Backed by the Pennsylvania State Horticultural association, the bill was sponsored in the house by Representative George A. Goodling, Republican, of York county, who argued before the house that such taxation has been in effect in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia for some time. Fruit growers in their efforts to get the bill passed had stated that the three other states in the Appalachian area had "become tired" of Pennsylvania's failure to provide its share of the funds necessary to carry on proposed advertising of the Appalachian Apple and were likely to abandon Pennsylvania and carry on their campaign to boost their own apples by themselves, thus leaving Pennsylvania growers more or less stranded in competitive markets.

What will be done now by the fruit growers probably will be discussed Thursday evening at a meeting of the Adams county Fruit Growers to be held at Biglerville at 8 o'clock. Carroll Miller, secretary of the Appalachian Apple association, will be the speaker at that session and should be able to give some assurance of whether present voluntary participation by Pennsyl-

FARM CALENDAR

Repaired Machines Safe—Needed repairs made to farm machines ahead of the time they will be used avoids loss of time and, more importantly, assure greater safety in their operation, points out John R. Haswell, extension agricultural engineer of the Pennsylvania State college.

Use counterweights—Windows with counterweights or catches for easy adjustment permit satisfactory ventilation of poultry houses and save labor. Windows which tilt open are easily broken.

Free Enterprise Issue

The bill was killed by the question of free enterprise. Representative Robert D. Fleming, Republican, of Allegheny county and Reuben Nagle, Democrat, of Beaver county, were foremost in opposition to the bill. Both claimed the measure was directed at free enterprise. Representative Goodling argued that similar taxation in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia had not wiped out free enterprise, but was unable to convince sufficient legislators to secure passage of the measure.

Get Timber Estimates—Blazing mature trees (18 to 24 inches thick waist high) and getting estimates on them only, thereby saving younger growth, contribute to satisfactory timber harvesting, says Walter W. Simonds, extension forester of the Pennsylvania State college.

Destroy Aphids—Dinitro used as a dormant spray on fruit trees or ornamentals (not evergreens) infested with eggs of aphids or plant lice will destroy these pests before they have a chance to hatch, informs J. O. Pepper, Penn State extension entomologist.

Keep Chicks Warm—Brooder stove guards made of foot-high poultry netting, cardboard, or wood help young chicks to get accustomed to the heat and prevent chilling and piling up, explains H. H. Kauffman, Penn State extension poultry specialist.

Like Grass Silage—Experiments

have shown grass silage to be as palatable and beneficial to sheep and beef cattle as corn silage, says C. A. Burge, extension livestock specialist of the Pennsylvania State college.

Control Caterpillars—Lead arsenate or DDT sprays kill caterpillars, but these pests can be eliminated before they hatch out by cutting off and burning twigs of trees containing the resinous-covered egg masses deposited last year, reports John O. Pepper, extension plant pathologist of the Pennsylvania State college.

Water after Feeding—Cows not supplied with drinking cups should be turned out to water morning and evening after they have been fed. The best plan is to give them access to water at all times, and thereby increase the size of the milk check.

Motors Ease Labor—Electric motors, which can be used for sawing wood, grinding grain for feed, and many other purposes, are coming into more general use on the farm, says Charles G. Burress, extension agricultural engineer of the Pennsylvania State college.

Give Lambs Good Start—Creep feeding lambs grain and good legume hay until pasture is available permits rapid finishing for market and maximum profit from this farm crop, says W. B. Connell, extension livestock specialist of the Pennsylvania State college.

Treat Pea Seed—Canary peas grown from treated seed have shown yield increases of 546 pounds per acre over peas from untreated seed, according to Allen H. Bauer, extension plant pathologist of the Pennsylvania State college.

In the United States in 1948, the Salvation Army conducted a total of 676,000 meetings and 100,000 open-air services.
